M/s. Syarikat Faiza Sdn Bhd, a Malaysian rice importing agency, has registered 'Ponni' rice as a trade mark under the Malaysian Trade Mark Act. Government of India have taken up the issue with the Government of Malaysia expressing concern and requested them to take appropriate action for expunging the registration of Ponni as a trade mark from the Register. Tamil Nadu Agriculture University is, however, providing technical information and, details regarding Ponni variety.

The High Commission of India, Kuala Lumpur has informed that M/s Syarikat Faiza Sdn Bhd issued legal notices in 2007 to other dealers in Malaysia to refrain from using the term "Ponni" to describe the variety of rice marketed by them. This was contested by one of the other rice importing agencies in the local court, and the matter is currently sub judice.

Ricetec Corporation, a United States firm, was granted a patent by United States Patents and Trade Marks Office (USPTO) on 2.9.1997 under patent number US 5663484 entitled "Basmati Rice Lines and Grains" containing 20 claims, inter alia, pertaining to rice lines for aromatic rice and rice grains having characteristics allegedly similar or superior to those of good quality basmati rice. The grant of this patent was opposed by Government of India vide request for re-examination number 90/005/709 dated 28.4.2000 and on re-examination proceedings by USPTO, 15 claims out of the 20 claims were cancelled and title of the said patent was amended to 'Rice Lines BAS 867, RT 1117, and RT 112' vide re-examination certificate issued on 29.1.2002.
